

Hi everyone,

Someone brought to my attention that they tried to take the exam today and neither they nor the proctor could find the exam. I think I figured out the issue, so the exam should now be available under the Assignments section in ALEKS.

I realize that the weekend may be the best time for some of you to test and this issue may have prevented some of you from testing this weekend. Because of this, I have extended the deadline for taking the exam to next Sunday, October 11th. We will still proceed with Section 5.1 on Thursday, so there will be a little overlap between taking Exam #1 that covers chapter 4 and our starting chapter 5, but I think it's more important to make sure those of you who need to test on the weekend have an opportunity to do so.

If anyone has any questions about this, please let me know. I hope everyone has a great rest of their weekend!

Douglas Scheib, Ph.D.
Mathematics Instructor
Department of Mathematics
College of Southern Nevada

